

Allied Irish Bank (GB)

London

CASE STUDY 30

Creed Miles was asked to furnish the impressive atrium and reception area of Allied Irish Bank's Middlesex building.

THE BRIEF

The Bank wanted to endorse the grand design of the building with a contemporary yet comfortable, reception area and atrium, whilst still following the corporate colour scheme.

There was also the problem of an easily relocatable reception desk.

THE SOLUTION

Dark burgundy, two seater and single seater leather sofas with matching low tables were arranged in sections across the atrium area with hand-woven Indian rugs adding warmth and complementing the corporate colour scheme.

A bespoke reception desk of yew veneer with chrome and manifested panels, was constructed and installed. Being of a sectional design, it can be easily relocated and is both functional and stylish.
